Helicopters, Drill Sergeants & Consultants: Parenting Styles And The Messages They Send

Synopsis

I have two addictions- kids and psychology. It's pretty easy to figure out why I grew addicted to kids, but with psychology it's less obvious. I became addicted to psychology because I grew up learning how to use power, and I finally got tired of fighting with everybody. In place of power, I'm suggesting some practical and usable tools for parents and teachers that are adapted from formal psychological concepts. I offer them as suggestions. You may chew on all of them, and you don't have to swallow a single one of them whole. I'm not trying to make you feel guilty. I'm not trying to tell you what you're doing wrong with your children. I simply want to share some psychological techniques that raised the quality of my life dramatically. I also want to do this because, for me, sharing these ideas is fun!

Customer Reviews

Jim Fay has more than 31 years experience as an educator and principal. He is recognized as one of America's top educational consultants and has won many awards in the educational field.

This is a great assistance for parenting-even 43 yr olds!!!! Jim is wonderful and puts learning into a different perspective-the kids need to learn now when they are young-to be able to survive in this world.It is the parents' or grandparents' job to teach as much as possible and not to be their friend.It is a necessary parenting aid and it helps to keep one's SANITY.

Some of the tracks on here are older, but the messages are still clear. I really love Love & Logic but find it easier to listen to these in the car when driving then to find time to read books. I used to yell a lot at my kids. It is the parenting style my mom and dad had for me. But I have really learned to take a step back, take the emotion out of my parenting, and let my kids make decisions and live with the natural consequences. I am so much happier as a parent! It takes a lot of practice, but you can get there too!

I talked to a dear friend who had been a school counselor for 30 years? I told her We were having so much trouble parenting our "grown children between the ages of 19 an 26. They thought they didn't need emergency savings ....because mom an dad had a money tree an all the answers. She told me to buy this book .It helped so much wished I would have had it when kids were very young an I possibly wouldn't have had these issues when they were older.We passed it all around our offices an bought more an sent to our older children when they were having children..lol

The methods on this CD will ensure your children have the best opportunity to become successful adults, by all measurements. I purhcase these and give them away to as many parents as I can.

Any material presented by Love and Logic is excellent!

This book is such a quick read and can really jump-start your Love & Logic parenting life. If you are someone who is in need of a big-time parenting fix, hopefully this book can help you identify whether you're a helicopter parent, a drill sergeant, or a combination of the two. Several friends have already borrowed this, which has piqued their interests in the rest of the Love & Logic series. It's no substitute for Parenting with Love & Logic, but it's a great start! Also, if you're a teacher dealing with struggling families, this could be a great tool to pass on (just remember to get it back)!!!

Highly entertaining, and provides a much needed perspective for brand new parents, to the well seasoned ones. I was given this as a gift 15 or so years ago, and had to buy a new one. It will be a gift for all of my children as they become parents themselves.

This book is too short and sweet to really help if you are having issues. I would stick with the main Love and Logic books. This book deals more with dealing with middle school or high schoolers. I have really gotten a lot out of the one for Early Childhood.
